

HISTORY (SHIS)

SHIS 201 Introduction to History 4 Credits

SHIS 202 Research Methods in History 4 Credits

SHIS 211 Surv American Hist to 1877 4 Credits

SHIS 212 Survey of American History II 4 Credits

A survey of American history from 1877 to the present with emphasis on social and cultural trends such as race, ethnicity, and modernization.

SHIS 221 Surv of African Amer History I 4 Credits

SHIS 222 Sur of African Amer History II 4 Credits

The sequel to History 221, this course emphasizes the transition from slavery to "freedom." Topics include institutional and organizational growth and development, migration, urbanization, nationalism, radicalism, segregation, gender, leadership, the Civil Rights and Black Power Movements, and an examination of contemporary society.

SHIS 242 Survey Of Modern China & Japan 4 Credits

A study of the transformation of China or Japan in the quest for modernization while confronting Westernization and colonialism. Special emphasis on the solutions that were unique to China or Japan. Alternate years.

SHIS 272 Sur Latin Amer II:Modern Perd 4 Credits

Survey of the politics, economies, and ideological concerns of the new Latin-American nations from the post-independence period to modern times. Alternate years.

SHIS 302 World History to 1500 4 Credits

SHIS 303 Making of the Modern World 4 Credits

SHIS 311 History of Georgia 4 Credits

SHIS 318 Cold War 4 Credits

SHIS 328 Islam in US History 4 Credits

SHIS 343A Modern Japanese History 4 Credits

SHIS 371 Women in Latin America History 4 Credits

A course focusing on the role of women in the formation and development of Latin America, including an analysis of women's contributions across racial and class lines. Alternate years.

SHIS 378 History of Revolution 4 Credits

SHIS 401 Topics in History 4 Credits

An in-depth examination of a given historical theme or problem. May be taken twice, provided the topics differ significantly.

SHIS 421 In Our Own Words:Afr Amer Wmn 4 Credits

SHIS 438 Women & Gender in Mod Afr Hist 4 Credits

This is a seminar course that examines the roles women played in shaping the modern African History. African women were active agents in the making of their histories even as historical forces shaped their lives and experiences in fundamental ways. This course will explore strategies women employed to acquire power and how they exercised that power in their capacities as political, social, and economic actors in various societies across Africa. The course also interrogates how African women challenged structures of power that privileged males within the society.